Rewarding volunteering opportunity in PUNJAB, India

Be involved in a unique new course to train young women from rural areas of Punjab to become early years teachers.

The Helga Todd Foundation runs research based pre-service, in-service and early years teacher training courses in India.

In July 2019 we are establishing a new early years course for graduates working with Akal University, Talwandi, Bathinda, Punjab. We require experienced teachers or teacher trainers for two month placements throughout 2019 and 2020, to deliver this course. It is to be run in partnership with the Kalgidhar Trust and Akal University and will be based at the university's new Talwandi campus. Volunteers will deliver an interactive, multisensory, cross curricular course working alongside lecturers from the university. Together you will equip the post-graduate students to become successful early years teachers.

You will be working as a volunteer with the cost of fares, accommodation and subsistence met by the Helga Todd Foundation. You will also receive a modest allowance and training materials.

For more information please contact and/or send your C.V. to katemoorse@helgatoddfoundation.org

Only shortlisted candidates will be contacted.
